Jernigan, of Pembroke, and Miss Ida McCarley. Rev. C. H. Nash performed the ceremony in the presence of a limited number of the most intimate friends of the young people.

Mr. Jernigan and his bride immediately left for Nashville and from there they went to Franklin, Ky., to visit the groom's relatives. The groom is a very prominent and exceedingly popular business man at Pembroke and has a large acquaintance in this city. His bride is a very bright and attractive young lady popular with a large circle of friends, and many are the congratulations extended to the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Jernigan will return to Pembroke this week, where they will make their future home.

Mr. Ellis came to this city from Tennessee, and the Robertson County News pays him the following compliment:

"Tilford Ellis is a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ellis of Coopersport and is one of the best young men the County ever produced. He is sober, industrious, and a Christian gentleman with it, and we congratulate him upon his good fortune in winning such a beautiful lady as Miss Dumond for his wife. She visited Coopersport last year and it was there Mr. Ellis made her acquaintance. Mr. Ellis is one of the trusted employees of Mr. Wm. McMurry in his tobacco business at Hopkinsville."

DEATH'S HARVEST.

Several Well Known People Pass Away.

Mr. Robt. L. Boyd, of Howell, a victim of Pneumonia And was Buried Sunday.

Mr. Jesse Giles, one of the country's best citizens, died at his home, near Howell, about six o'clock last Thursday evening, after an illness of only a week of pneumonia. Mr. Giles had been a sufferer from some throat affection for several years, but was able to be up until a few days before his death. He was in this city on business on Friday, Jan. 4, and on returning home was attacked with pneumonia. In a day or two the disease developed in an acute form, causing his death as above stated.

The deceased was in the 73rd year of his age and leaves a widow and nine children—six sons and three daughters.

He was a native of Virginia and came to Kentucky with his parents from Halifax county when a boy. He was a very successful business man, having been engaged in farming all his life, and leaves a handsome estate.

He had been a member of Olivet Baptist church for a number of years, and no man in Christian county was better known nor had more friends. He was a devoted father and friend, an exemplary citizen and the Kentuckian joins in deepest sympathy with the family and community in their sorrow.

His funeral was preached by Rev. W. H. Vaughan Friday and the body was laid to rest in the graveyard on the premises.

ESTEEMED CITIZEN

Passes Away After Illness of Only Few Weeks.

Mr. R. L. Boyd, a well known and much esteemed citizen, died at his home not far from Howell Saturday. He had been sick but a short time, death being due to pneumonia. He was brother of Messrs. Ben C. and J. W. Boyd, of this city.

Mr. Boyd had been engaged in farming for many years and was one among the county's best citizens.

No one knew Mr. Boyd but like him and on his deathbed community has lost one of its most useful men. Funeral services were held at his late residence and the interment took place at the family burying ground.

Mr. Boyd was 65 years old and leaves four grown children. He had been a widower for several years. A singular coincidence in his career was that he was born, married and buried on the 13th of the month. He held a policy of $2000 in the Knights of Honor order, of which he was a member.

CALLED SUDDENLY.

Fatal Stroke of Paralysis While Eating Dinner.

Rev. A. H. McNeil, rector of the colored Episcopal church, died suddenly of paralysis Sunday night. He was in his usual health apparently and while eating dinner was stricken and fell from his chair unconscious. He never rallied from the stroke and died during the night.

Rev. McNeil was about 40 years of age and was one of the best representatives of his race in the city. Besides the charge of the church here, which he did much to build up, he was also teacher of the school run under the auspices of the church. Action	Postponed Until	Next Monday Morning.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 8.—The Third Baptist church of this city and the Official Board of the Y. M. C. A. are having a clash. Secretary C. R. Boucher recently married, and has a divorced wife. The Third church contended that the divorce was not obtained on Scriptural grounds. On New Year's day the association sent Mr. and Mrs. Boucher a handsome present, accompanied by a resolution congratulating them on their marriage. The Third church construed the resolution as an endorsement of Mr. Boucher's marriage, and has addressed a long resolution to the Y. M. C. A. Board requesting to know if the board does really endorse Secretary Boucher, and goes on to speak of the objection of the Third church to Mr. Boucher as Secretary. The board postponed action till next Monday night.

WITHDRAWALS APPEAL.

Will Serve Term and Goes to Prison Alone.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 8.—John Jones, sentenced from Marion county to serve two years for manslaughter, came to Nasaville to do his time. He was unattended by an officer, and said he had decided to withdraw his appeal and come on and serve his sentence. He bought a railroad ticket and came to Nashville on his own accord. He called upon Gov. McMillin, but that official told him he could not be committed to the penitentiary without a mittimus. Jones waited around the Governor's office for a while and then boarded a street car and started for the prison, six miles out. On the car he met Warden Hartford, and in some way struck up an acquaintance. The situation was explained, with the result that the warden gave him a cell. Jones is a delicate man, and said he was anxious to get some light work to do in prison.

MAMMOTH HOG.

Giant Porker, Hams of Which Weigh 130 Pounds.

Obion county, Tennessee, stands at the head for the largest hog, which was raised by Gest Palmer, of Pleasant Valley. It was not weighed before being killed, but after being slaughtered and dressed it tipped the beam at 700 pounds. As there was nothing on the place large enough in which to scald it, it was skinned. The skin was no heavier than many hogs slaughtered weighing 100 pounds. The hams looked like they might be part of a mammoth or mastodon, and after being closely trimmed weighed 65 pounds each. This giant porker was a cross between a Dorkshire and a Poland-China.

Running from Guam to the Philippines the bottom was found to be less regular than east of Guam, the surface being undulating at depths of from 1,400 to 2,700 fathoms for 600 knots. Then a mountain range was found, from the crest of which there was a gradual slope to a depth of about 3,500 fathoms, after which until the Luzon coast was reached the bottom was nearly level. This stretch is described as insuring long life to cables as the bottom is covered with soft mud and ooze.

The route from Guam north to Yokohama was found to lie west of the Ladrones and east of the Bonin Islands. The bottom for a distance of 5,000 knots from Guam is described as a level plain at a depth of 2,100 fathoms. Then a submarine mountain range was found, some parts of which came within 483 fathoms of the surface, and which was determined to be similar in altitude and contour to the volcano of Fujiyama, near Yokohama, which is 12,430 feet high.

After considerable difficulty a feasible pass across this range was found. This newly found mountain range is said by the experts of the expedition to connect the range running from the west coast of Japan to the Bonin Islands with one of the Ladrones.

HAD A CLASH.

Survey For Submarine Cable Has Been Finished.

Government Hydrographers Record Discoveries in Regard to Routes.

Charts showing the route decided upon by the United States equipment bureau as feasible for an all-American cable service between the Pacific coast and the new colonial possessions have at last been received at the government hydrographic office in Chicago. The report shows discoveries of submarine abysses and mountain peaks of greater depths and heights than were known to the world previous to the soundings made for the cable route.

Previous surveys had demonstrated the feasibility of a cable route from San Francisco to the island of Oahu, in the Hawaiian group, and from Santa Barbara to Honolulu. The route just charted by the hydrographers of the expedition in command of Lieutenant-Commander H. M. Hodges is from Honolulu to the Midway islands, to Guam, and from there to the Philippines and to Yokohama.

Find an Ideal Route.

Between Honolulu and the Midway islands the bottom of the ocean was found to be an almost level plain of soft mud at an average depth of 2,700 fathoms, and, according to Rear-Admiral Hodges, an ideal route for cable laying. It was found necessary to deviate from a straight line from the Midway islands to Guam in order to avoid the great depths.

An abyss—the deepest ever found—was encountered about sixty miles east of Guam, bottom reaching only after 5,269 fathoms or 31,614 feet of wire had been run out. Another sounding was taken 5,070 fathoms of water. At a depth of 5,101 fathoms the temperature was found to be 46 degrees above zero Fahrenheit. The abyss was named the Nero deep. Peak Approaches the Surface.

For 1,000 knots from the Midways toward Guam the bottom was almost level, with the exception of one peak, which rose to within eighty-two fathoms of the surface. The practical cable route was found to lie north of Nero deep. It is believed that still greater ocean depths may be found south of the sounding east of Guam.

Running from Guam to the Philippines the bottom was found to be less regular than east of Guam, the surface being undulating at depths of from 1,400 to 2,700 fathoms for 600 knots. Then a mountain range was found, from the crest of which there was a gradual slope to a depth of about 3,500 fathoms, after which until the Luzon coast was reached the bottom was nearly level. This stretch is described as insuring long life to cables as the bottom is covered with soft mud and ooze.

The route from Guam north to Yokohama was found to lie west of the Ladrones and east of the Bonin Islands. The bottom for a distance of 5,000 knots from Guam is described as a level plain at a depth of 2,100 fathoms. Then a submarine mountain range was found, some parts of which came within 483 fathoms of the surface, and which was determined to be similar in altitude and contour to the volcano of Fujiyama, near Yokohama, which is 12,430 feet high.

After considerable difficulty a feasible pass across this range was found. This newly found mountain range is said by the experts of the expedition to connect the range running from the west coast of Japan to the Bonin Islands with one of the Ladrones.

COURTHIPS FORTY YEARS.Philip Brerett Renewed a Marriage License Issued to Him in 1862.

Toledo, O., Jan. 6.—A license to marry was issued yesterday to Philip W. Breitl and Mary Ball, each of whom is over 70 years old. Their courtship has extended over a period of forty years. They were to have been married in 1862 and the groom duly procured a marriage license, but for some reason other engagement was broken off. The groom appeared at the courthouse Saturday and inquired if the document issued forty years ago was valid, and it paid off the wife is. He was prepared to purchase a license of more recent date.

On leaving the office of the probate judge the aged lover remarked: "I'm going to do the right thing by her now." The couple will be married to-morrow. Breitl has been a porter in the employ of a wholesale grocery house for the last thirty-four years without missing a day's work.

MINSTRELS TO-NIGHTGreat Barlow And Wilson's Aggregation at Opera House.

Commenting on Barlow and Wilson's minstrels at the Grand Opera House last night. It is the strongest aggregation this company ever carried, and the first part setting in the finest ever seen on the local stage. That minstrelsy is still popular with fun lovers was evident; and it is worthy of mention, that while farces and melodramas come, and fall by the wayside, clean cut minstrelsy will go on just the same; and while it has amused many in the past, it will continue to amuse a great many, before the last house has rattled into dust, and the last tambourine has shattered. The monologue work of Barlow and Wilson was exceedingly clever, while the quartet met round after round of applause; and the work of Marion and Pearl was the greatest novelty seen here this season. Taken all in all it is well named "Greater."

This great minstrel aggregation will appear at Holland's Opera House this evening. They give a first class show and should have a packed house on the occasion of their visit to this city.

Mr. Clement writes his own plays, and into both "A Southern Gentleman" and "The New Dominion," he has injected a subtle philosophy that appeals to the reason as well as to the dramatic taste; and this is largely an explanation of the growing hold he has upon the people.

As General Carroll in "A Southern Gentleman," Mr. Clement has a part well-suited to his talents, a graceful style, and he gives a faithful portrayal of the chivalric gentlemens of the South whom all have learned to love in history and in story. The very quietness of Mr. Clement's style is its strongest force.

This should be home ready and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale R. C. Hardwick.

MEANEST MODERN SHYLOCK.

London Jan. 13.—Samuel Lewis

the notorious money lender and usurer, who has been called "the greatest and meanest of modern shylocks" is dead.

The skin of the Extremadura sheep is unsuitable for gloves and can only be used for inferior articles.

In Milan and St. Julian, in France, in Yevil, in England, and also in several parts of Germany there are large tanneries devoted to the preparation of the skins exported from Murcia, Catalonia and La Mancha.

These tanneries, says a consular report, either directly or through commission firms, send a large proportion of their output to the United States, which is an important market for glove skins.

When the animal is more fully grown its skin can no longer be used for making gloves, and it is then applied to the manufacture of fancy goods, bookbinding, etc. Sheepskins are prepared in two ways: When tanned with sumac they are used for making cigar cases, pocketbooks, purses, etc., but when required for leggings, aprons used by agricultural laborers, harness or anything that must be subjected to wear and tear, the skins are oak tanned. The former—i.e., those prepared with sumac—are extensively exported from Spain to Germany, whereas the latter find, or used to find, a good market in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

The manner in which the skin is removed from the carcass is as follows: A small hole is made in one of the hind legs of the animal; a strong pair of bellows are then inserted into this little aperture and air is blown in until the carcass is well swollen. The belly is then split open from end to end and the skin carefully removed, necessary with the help of a knife.

The skins are collected by men who devote themselves exclusively to this work. After being exposed to the sun until a slight crust is formed on the flesh side they are stretched on ropes in the shade until completely dried, and are then ready for export.

A New Protective Device.

In some new bank buildings that are being erected in London it has been decided to trust neither police, private custodians nor safes. All walls connected with the vaults are to have old-fashioned cannot balls loosely imbedded in them, the idea, of course, being that the rounded surface of the cannon balls will cause burglars' tools to slip, and there will be no chance of picking the walls to pieces quickly enough for burglars' depredations.

Pneumonia Prevented

Among the tens of thousands who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds and grippe during the past few years, not a single case has resulted in pneumonia. Thus, Whitfield & Co., 210 Wabash avenue, Chicago, one of the most prominent retail druggists in that city, in speaking of this way: "We recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for grippe in many cases, as it not only gives prompt and complete recovery, but also counteracts any tendency of grippe to result in pneumonia." ### A Southern Gentleman."

Mr. Clement has called his new play "A Southern Gentleman," the scenes of which take place in the sunny Southland. The first act is in Louisiana, while grim visaged war hangs like a pall over the state in 1862. This act furnishes the motive for a romantic history which is told twenty-two years later, amid peaceful scenes in South Carolina. Mr. Clement plays a chivalrous country, old gentlemen throughout these scenes, after having been seen as a young Confederate officer in the first act. Opera House Jan. 21.

PERSONAL DAMAGES.

This Bill Is One of the Biggest Items in the Expense Account.

One of the items of cost not usually considered by the public in connection with railway operation is the bill for personal damages. This is emphasized by some figures recently published in connection with the Texas railroads, where it appears that in that state during two years ended June 30, 1900, the railroads paid to persons for injuries received $1,634,576. It is not the cost of railroad operation, strictly speaking, that makes the line between profit and loss so very fine; it is taxation, personal injury bills, expensive wrecks and the various other collateral expenditures that worry the management. These cannot be provided against, and amount to a sum that is startling in the aggregate—Railway and Engineering Review.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your health, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however; you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be weak and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.

If you have not tried it, send for sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

A SHREWD SCHEME.

Merchant Narrowly Escaped Aiding a Jail-Breaking.

"Whenever I see that particular brand of canned peaches," said a New Orleans merchant to a Times reporter, "I eat a row of them on the top shelf." "I am reminded of something very queer that happened here several years ago. One day in the summer of '96, if I remember rightly, a ruined looking woman of about 50, dressed in deep mourning, came into the store and bought a couple of cases of California peaches of the brand I have just pointed out. She had a calico bag with her, and I thought no more of the incident until she returned next day, carrying the tins in her hand. 'I have a sick brother,'—she said, naming a small town in Alabama, 'and was intending to send him these peaches, with a bundle of other things, yesterday. But, on second thought, I believe I will buy a few more delicacies and get you to ship them separately.' There was nothing peculiar about the request, and I assured her I would be glad to attend to the matter. She ordered four or five dollars' worth of different articles—jellies, olives, marmalade and so on—and paid the bill and gave me her brother's name, directing the thing to be sent to him in care of Capt. Somebody or Other, at the Alabama town which she mentioned before. As soon as she left I got out a box and began to pack up the contribution; but so soon as I came to the peaches I noticed that the two cans which she had returned were both slightly dented, as we call it in the trade. In other words, the tops bulged outward a trifle, indicating that a little fermentation had been going on. Not wishing to send a sick man anything but the best, I set them aside and put in two fresh cans from the shelf. The box was shipped by the first express. Nearly six months after this episode," continued the grocer, with twinkling eyes, "we were cleaning out our old stock and ran across those two cans of peaches. I picked up one of them carelessly, and my hand being wet, a piece of the label came off. You may imagine my surprise to see a lot of small saws soldered to the side of the tin, and on further examination we found that they completely encircled the can, and that the other was in exactly the same condition. At that I began to have a faint inkling of the truth and lost no time in making a few inquiries. I found that the Alabama captain was the sheriff of his county and the injured brother had been one of his officers. He was a barge and had since been sent to prison for ten years. The scheme was pretty shrewd. In the first place, the sheriff would not be apt to suspect of a package of good coming direct from a reputable business house, and, even if he opened the cans before giving them to the prisoner, there would be nothing wrong inside. The crooks must have been bitterly disappointed when he examined the substitute that I sent. The cans, as we afterward found out, were highly tempered and could cut a steel bar like yellow pine. Who was the woman in black, did you ask? I have no idea, probably a sister, or wife, or sweetheart. I never laid eyes on her afterward."

ANTIQUITY OF AGRICULTURE.

Goes Back at Least to Time When Stone Implements Were Used.

The origin of agriculture is lost in the mists of antiquity, says Prof. A. C. Hadden, in Knowledge. We know that in Neolithic times in Europe eight kinds of cereals were cultivated, besides flax, peas, poppies, apples, pears, bullace plums, etc., at the same time various animals were domesticated. Among these were horses, short-horned oxen, horned sheep, goats, two breeds of pigs and dogs. Prof. W. Boyd Dawkins says that evidence goes to show that these animals were not domesticated in Europe, but probably in the central plateau of Asia. He also thinks that agriculture arose in the south and east of Europe, and spread gradually to the center, north and west. A hunting population is often very averse to even the slight amount of work that agriculture requires in a tropical country. The same holds good, as a rule, for pastoral communities. In all cases a powerful constraint is necessary to force these peoples into un congenial employment. Fat is stronger than will, and at various periods, in different climates, hunters and herdsmen have been forced to take the soil.

Hopkinsville Boys Capture Some of The Best Prizes.

Carl C. Moore and Rodman Meacham returned last week from the big Memphis Poultry Show, where they made handsome winnings on their fowls. The former captured 13 of the 20 prizes offered on Cornish Indian Geese, including four firsts, (and the latter got 1st cock and second pen in the Barred Plymouth Rock class of 146 birds), his largest exhibit of the season in the South. Mrs. Stella G. Northington, of Peabody, won the prize offered for the largest Bronze Turkey in the show, exhibiting a gobbler weighing nearly 50 pounds.

He was a tremendous success. The attendance on some days reached 5000 people at 25 cents each.

By special request of business men, the show was continued over Sunday. There were 120 birds and 200 dogs and about 300 other exhibits of one kind or another in the show.

AT A SNAKE'S MERCY.

Bair-Raising Experience of an English Officer in India.

There are innumerable tales told or heard which escape from death from encounters with venomous snakes, and, as may be inferred, those tales are most common in India, where there is a deadly snake for every day in the year.

The following story comes from that source, and was told by an English officer who was stationed at Town-goon:

"It was during the wet monsoon at the time. We were sitting over our coffee, when a young lieutenant called out: 'I feel something creeping up my right leg.' I may assure you that white trousers of American drill are worn for the sake of coolness.

"An old officer present told the young fellow not to stir, but sit perfectly quiet, adding that it was no doubt a snake, and that if he was to move his position he might be fatally bitten.

"The young fellow behaved with much nerve. His face became a shade paler, but he took the advice given and remained quiet. He told us in a low voice that the creature whatever it was, could not get past knee, and that it had crawled up around his leg.

"Not knowing how far it had crawled and, the officer said, 'I will give you a stink bomb.' The young fellow soon made out that he was to do with a red hot pepper, so he did as the old man directed, and gave it to the snake. It crawled away.

"The snake, with a start, was set down behind the young officer's chair, the bear scuttling behind him.
The other officers were round looking charmers.

"The musician commenced to play
a low, soft melody on his pipe, monotonous but pleasing.

"In a few minutes the head of the reptile was seen to peep out from the young officer's trousers, and after nodding it about a little, keeping time with the cadence of the music, the snake slowly wriggled itself free from the young man's leg and glided toward the pipe.

"The music now became fast and wild, the snake keeping time with it, until with a rapid, sharp movement
the man on the floor caught the snake by the neck, thus forcing his jaws apart. Producing a steel instrument, the operator pulled the poison bag out with a dexterous jerk, then threw the snake into the basket and shut down the flap. On receiving a few rapses the charmers made a low oblique retired with their prize.

"The snake proved to be a col-de-capello, or hooded snake, about 18 inches in length. After the reptile had withdrawn from about his leg
the young fellow would have fainted from the reaction but an old officer had some brandy ready which he made the youth swallow. This restorative soon put him to rights, although I don't suppose he forgot the incident for some time."—Golden Days.

PRISON BREAKING.

Some Men Born with the Genius of Escape.

The gift of prison breaking is among the rarest of human gifts, says the London Spectator. Jack Sheppard, for instance, was born with the genius of escape, and it is unlikely that the best instruction would have improved his genius. The handcuffs, which could inclose his wrists were never forged; no wall was ever built that he, stripping as he was, could not batter down, and the barrel cell his guardians could prepare always contained whatever materials were needed for his escape. Latitude, whose supposed persecution was a support to the French revolution, possessed Jack Sheppard's talent in a less degree.
It was rather coolness than ingenuity which enabled him to escape the restraints imposed by a severe government, and the famous rope ladder was not all of his own making. The word is that, pretty as the gift is, few men of distinction have the opportunity of exercising it. The prison breaker too often blithely see his cause there are no walls for him to scale. But for once talent and occasion met in Capt. Ayhner Haldane, whose escape from Pretoria is among the most brilliant exploits of the Boer war.

At one time ago I was troubled with catarrh of the lower bowel, etc., T. Chisholm, 48, December Av., Whetstone, and although I consulted several eminent physicians who prescribed for me, I found their remedies failed to in any way relieve me, and almost became chronic, after suffering several months, and was advised by my Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Reportedly I am to assure you that I am now quite well, surprised to find that after two doses of the remedy the disease completely relieved of me, and that has not been so much trouble until now. I thank you very much for your kind advice. I am thankful that I have not suffered "illness" for sole by R. C. Hardwick.
